Reflecting head, stomach, and heart talk 44
Let’s dance to a new song 44

PART TWO: The Talker-Listener Process 47

7. Going Beyond the Tango 49
Taking Turns Seems Simple 50
One fish story at a time 52
Good listeners improve our stories 53
Teeth marks in the tongue 54
End arguing as we know it 54

8. The Talker-Listener Card 55
The TLC as intervention 56
We all forget 57
Getting ready to use the TLC 57
Observing pays dividends 58
Telephone practice 60
A coffee house experiment 60
Try the TLC with a “safe” friend 62
Can you use the TLC with yourself? 63
Some people can’t listen 63

9. TLC – Who Talks First? 65
Talker – I’m most bothered 65
If neither of you can listen...what then? 66
Listener – I’m calm enough to hear 67
Thud means listen 68
Don’t let a question mask what someone needs to say 68
Does the TLC help when only one person uses it? 69

10. TLC – Who Owns the Problem? 70
Talker – I own the problem 70
Bouncing pronouns 70
The issue is deeper than pronouns 72
There are exceptions 73
The four-alarm issue in problem ownership 73
Listener – I don’t own the problem 75

11. TLC – What Does the Talker Do? 76
First Talker Goal – To share my feelings 77
Stomach talk 77
Watch out for the dreaded “I feel that...” 78
Sharing feelings is risky, but worth it 79
Second Talker Goal – To share my thoughts 80
Head talk 80
Compliments 81
Sharing thinking is risky too 82
Third Talker Goal – My 82
Ownership 83
Openness 83
12. TLC – Talk Without
   Talker – Without accusing, attacking, labeling, or judging
   Using the finger method
   The finger method with heat

13. TLC – What Does the Listener Do?
   Two heads better than one?
   First Listener Goal – To provide safety
   Serious safety in a world of alligators
   Second Listener Goal – To understand
   Non-judgmental listening
   Listening: dangerous to our opinions
   Third Listener Goal – To clarify
   Will listening change anyone?
   Sometimes listening doesn’t work
   Listening into people’s lives

14. TLC – Listen Without
   Listen – Without agreeing
   Useful agreement
   Agreement, a substitute for friendship?
   Listen – Without disagreeing
   Listen – Without advising
   Do quick answers pay off?
   When asked a question, ask a question
   When you do give advice
   Listen – Without defending
   Defending equals attacking

15. When to Turn the Card
   In simple conversations: A loop
   If the conversation is complex: Longer
   With people who talk all the time

PART THREE: The Listening Techniques

16. A Few Communicating Traps
   1. Ritual listening
   2. Perry Masons
   3. “Why?”
   4. “Not?”
   5. “I understand”
   6. “Yes, but…”
   When “Yes, but…” helps
   What if a talker or listener uses a trap on us?

17. When Trying New Skills
